

James Kirchner

Director of Fund Administration

James Kirchner is a vice president of Eaton Vance Management and director of fund administration, where his team is responsible for various aspects of oversight for the Eaton Vance family of funds including third-party service provider oversight, valuation oversight, expense budgeting and administration, and fund accounting policies. Jim is a member of the Valuation Committee. He joined Eaton Vance in 2007.

Jim began his career in the investment management industry in 1989. Prior to joining Eaton Vance, Jim was affiliated with Investors Bank and Trust as a senior director, responsible for overseeing the team that provided the day-to-day custody and fund accounting services for the Eaton Vance Funds. He was also responsible for the senior loan services team and additional client relationships with a diverse range of product offerings. Previously, he was a vice president in the fund control department at Scudder Kemper Investments, where he provided an array of services for the treasury, fund accounting, product development and portfolio management teams. During his tenure at Scudder, Jim also managed several fund accounting units, the centralized pricing and corporate actions groups, and the fund accounting conversion team. He was previously affiliated with State Street Bank.

Jim earned a bachelor's degree in economics and accounting from the College of the Holy Cross.
