

John Shea

Chief Information Officer

John Shea is a vice president of Eaton Vance Management and chief information officer of Eaton Vance Corp. He is responsible for all technology at Eaton Vance and supervises a staff of more than 230 employees. He joined Eaton Vance in 2006. John is also on the Eaton Vance Management Committee.

John began his career in the investment management industry in 1996. Before joining Eaton Vance, he was director of information technology at Batterymarch Financial Management, a Legg Mason subsidiary, and senior vice president of MFS Investment Management, where he was responsible for all computer systems and operations. Before entering the financial services industry, John started his career as a Navy Officer in Submarines and retired as Captain in the United States Navy Reserve, having served 30 years.

John holds a B.S. in marine engineering from Maine Maritime Academy and an MBA from Anna Maria College. He also holds a graduate certificate in internet technologies from Boston University and an Executive Certificate in Management and Leadership from MIT's Sloan School of Management. He is a registered professional engineer, a Certified Information Systems Auditor and a Project Management Professional, and also holds a Global Information Assurance Certification (GIAC) as a Certified Incident Handler (GCIH).

John was named by Wall Street & Technology Magazine in its 2007 Gold Book as one of the top financial technology executives. The Gold Book profiles some of the most innovative and successful technology executives in the industry. In 2013, John was awarded Boston Business Journal's CIO of the Year Award, which recognizes the top innovators who keep their companies running ahead of the curve. John is on the board of directors for First Literacy, Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy Greenway Conservancy and Anna Maria College. He is also a volunteer for Year Up.